What's New in the GPA-Wizard?

GPA-Wizard is a small and useful Java application designed to calculate your grade point average (GPA) in the most accurate way possible. It calculates your GPA using your last grades in any subject. GPA-Wizard is a simple application that will automatically calculate your GPA using your last grades (final exam or final project) in any subject. Instructions for use: GPA-Wizard will automatically calculate your GPA from your grades. You can simply enter your GPA and calculate it. GPA-Wizard will calculate it using a formula that may change based on the subject. You can also save the results in a file, or print it. The results can be saved in many file formats such as TXT, CSV or HTML. If your grades are not recorded in a single file, you can save the results in a file in your default file format. This program works on many platforms. You can use it on Windows (Vista, 7, 8, XP), Linux, Mac OS X and Solaris. History: Version 1.4: - Fixed a bug with GPA calculation - Added more subjects: Accounting, Math, Physics and Biology Version 1.3: - Fixed a bug that occurred with Java 1.8 - Added many new subjects: Arts, Music, Nursing, Biotechnology, Business and Statistics Version 1.2: - Fixed a bug with version 1.3 of the program - Added more subjects: Physics, Chemistry, Electricity and Electronics, Design and Computer Science Version 1.1: - The program now includes a calculation on your GPA using all the previous grades, not only the most recent - The program will calculate your GPA using the current values in your grades in a new window, and not in the current application window. - The program will now calculate your GPA using the current values in your grades in the new window, and not in the current application window. - Added more subjects: Music, Psychology, French, Spanish, Reading and English - You can now save your GPA in a file, or print it. Requirements: GPA-Wizard requires the Java Runtime Environment to run. Suggestions: Please report bugs and feature requests on the forum.
